A Prayer for Universal Peace

We offer this solemn prayer for peace.

We look with profound sorrow upon the suffering caused by escalating hostilities, the widening violence across troubled regions, the prolonged conflicts between neighboring lands, and the many other disputes that continue to claim innocent lives. Too many civilians have perished, and too many families now live in grief and fear.

The Buddha taught that hatred is never overcome by hatred, but only by non-hatred and compassion. In the same spirit, the world's great religious traditions remind us of love, mercy, and mutual respect must prevail over violence and enmity.

We sincerely ask all governments, leaders, and armed actors to stop the violence and choose dialogue, wisdom, and compassion. Only through mutual respect, forgiveness, and reconciliation can a just and lasting peace be built.

May all violence cease.

May innocent lives be protected.

May peace take root among all people.
